The Bolivar Bulletin.

HUGH WILLIAMS, EDITOR.

THOSE of our farmers who have been compelled to buy corn and oats, and we regret to state that the number is large, will have to economize in order to settle with their merchants next fall.

THE BULLETIN has furnished its subscribers with a large amount of reading matter for some time past, but this week we devote considerable of our space to advertising, we hope the diversion will be as satisfactory and acceptable to our readers as it is to us.

It is among the possibilities, we might say probabilities, that at no distant day Bolivar will be lighted by electricity. Several of our enterprising citizens have become interested in the matter and agree to put in a plant, provided a certain number of lights are contracted for. The required number has not yet been reached, a thorough canvass not having been made, but the promoters feel greatly encouraged over the outlook. The enterprise deserves the hearty support of all who have the interest of the town at heart. Few places of Bolivar's size are without electric lights. There are many points in favor of electric lights that could be urged, but it is only necessary to state that it is the most satisfactory and cheapest of all.

COTTON STATISTICS.

The Census office at Washington has recently issued a bulletin, giving the quantity of cotton ginned, average weight of bale, average cost per bale for ginning and baling (crop of 1899) from which the BULLETIN gathers the following information:
Total number of bales grown in United States, 9,645,974.
Largest number of bales grown by any one state (Texas) 4,658,555.
Smallest number of bales grown by any one state (Kentucky) 84.
Tennessee grew 215,175 bales, leads the...

the number of bales produced by her being 34,693. The county of Jackson brings up the rear, producing only 2 bales. Hardeman county produced 10,595 square bales (average gross weight 500 pounds per bale) average cost per bale for ginning and baling, $2.09; 200 round bales (average gross weight 250 pounds per bale) average cost per bale for ginning and baling, $1.60.

Electric Lights.

BOLIVAR, March 27.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE BULLETIN:
As "a stranger in a strange land" I am greatly surprised to learn that there has been considerable delay in the matter of introducing electric lighting into a community of such enlightened citizenship. A matter that so directly affects the material growth and prosperity of a town as electric lighting should need no urging upon the people and they should lend every possible effort to securing this great indicator of comfort and advanced civilization.

Aside from the fact that Bolivar can be thoroughly and brilliantly lighted with electricity for the money that is annually paid to the Standard Oil Trust we have the following additional inducements:

1. Better and more cleanly, and consequently more healthful lighting.
2. Street lighting that improves the town and makes it safer from depredations of midnight thieves and thugs.
3. Reduced insurance and less liability of conflagrations.
4. Modern appearance that at once impresses strangers and visitors with the fact that the town is progressive and up to date.
5. Investment of capital and the establishment of another home enterprise.

All of these things help to build up a town and push it forward. The place that clings to the ancient Kerosene lamp and the antiquated "tallow dip" is laughed to scorn by people who are looking for live communities in which to invest their money or make their home.

Bolivar is standing in her own light every minute she delays in getting good lights. She should have them, and as quickly as possible. The live, wide-awake citizens should put their shoulder to the wheel and push with a will.

In reporting the death of Mr. James A. Black last week, which was a great loss not only to his family, but to the county, the BULLETIN was in error in stating that consumption was the cause. The attending physician, Dr. H. W. Tate, informs us that death resulted from influenza with meningitis complication.

As the hot weather of summer is approaching, this paper will constantly keep before its readers the effects of warm weather upon small children, and it is hoped that all mothers of this community will keep their children in a healthy condition by giving them only 25 cents at drugstore, or mail 25 cents to C. J. Moffett, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

I wish to announce to the public and to my former patronage that I have returned from makret where I purchased the most complete line of Millinery that has ever been brought to Toone. Call and see my stock before buying elsewhere, and my prices will convince you that I am your friend. Thanking you for past favors and soliciting a continuation of same, I am
Respectfully,

The BULLETIN acknowledges the receipt of an invitation to the marriage of Miss Grace Hartsfield to Mr. Harry Patrick Joyner, Wednesday, April 3rd, 1901, Dresden, Tenn. The groom-to-be is a popular citizen of Bolivar, where he was born and reared, and he has numerous friends here by whom he is held in high esteem. Miss Hartsfield is said to be a most charming young lady. Mr. and Mrs. Joyner will be at home, Fulton, Ky., May 1st. We desire to extend congratulations in advance.

Spring Millinery.

The public is most cordially invited to attend my Hat Opening, Saturday, April 6th, when the latest and most stylish creations will be displayed.
Respectfully,

In next week's issue of the BULLETIN we will print bills introduced in the House Tuesday by Mr. Foster "to define a lawful fence" and "to prevent stock from running at large."

Landreth's, Ferry's and Craig's Garden Seeds at W. J. Cox's.

Miss Fannie Watson won the gold medal for the greatest number of head marks in the advanced spelling class, and Mattie Ragon the silver medal for the same in the primary class, offered by the teacher of the Walnut Grove School. The contest was close in both classes, and those who were successful not only have the prizes to show for their work, but the more important knowledge of knowing how to spell, which is shared by all the unsuccessful contestants.

We were glad to have a visit last week from our friend, Dr. W. J. Cox, of Bolivar. He was in the city in connection with a large delegation from Bolivar, to try to secure the abolition of the charter of their town, so that it might be re-incorporated without saloons. We have not been informed as to the result of their mission, but hope that it may be successful. Dr. Cox, by the way, is one of the cleverest men as well as one of the most active Baptists in the State.—Baptist and Reflector.

There was a gloom cast over the entire community March 20, 1901, when the sad news of the death of Jas. A. Black reached the ears of his many sympathetic and solicitous friends.

After several weeks of intense suffering from influenza with meningitis complication which was patiently borne for the Master's sake, he quietly gave up the struggle with the tyrant death, and gently yielded his spirit to God, who gave it. In the family cemetery in the presence of a large number of bereaved friends and relatives, his body was laid to rest.

Taken in the prime of life from a fond and loving home where, seemingly, he was so much needed—How sad to give up one of such promise and usefulness. Yet to depart and be with Christ is far better and some day we may understand

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Temelia Middleton was born in Franklin County, Ala., March 11, 1830. She was married to Mr. D. E. Middleton, Feb. 1, 1849, and to this union were born five children, all of whom, with the husband, survive her. She made a public profession of her faith in Christ during the year 1870 and united first with the Baptist and afterwards, with her husband, entered into the Church of the Disciples, retaining her membership in that church until she died. In 1886 she moved to Grand Junction which has ever since been her home. Mrs. Middleton had been in feeble health for some time and on this account had been denied the privilege of a regular attendance upon the public services of the sanctuary. With an enfeebled constitution incident to one of her age, she was unable to withstand the severe attack of pneumonia and died March 24, 1901. Loving children and faithful friends did all they could to nurse her through this sickness. Dr. Bolton, a relative, was with her all the time and his constant attention and faithful services were appreciated by the family. These briefly are the facts connected with her life but the love and devotion as wife, mother, cannot always be expressed in words and yet it will ever live in the hearts of loved ones by whom she is held in great veneration and she will be remembered by all who knew her as a kind, sympathetic and faithful friend and neighbor. She had previously professed her faith in Christ and His promise is "he that believeth in the Son hath everlasting life." To those sorrowing hearts mortals can do nothing more than commend to Him who can "comfort as a mother" and by whose grace we are enabled to say "Thy will be done." W.S.C.

May God fold the arms of his protection around the dear children left to battle with the present evil world, while father and mother are "asleep in Jesus," awaiting their coming. In the land of the loyal, in the golden summer of that sinless empyrean clime, where the funeral march is never sounded and the family circle is never broken, amid scenes of matchless splendor and joys unfading, they shall meet according to the word of the Lord—to part no more.

With deepest sympathy for the family.

his going. We humbly bow in submission to him who doeth all things well.

Mr. Black was born May 19, 1856; made a declaration of his faith in Christ, Oct. 15, 1874; a consistent member of the Greenwood C. P. Church. He loved his church and was ever ready to support its enterprises. Was married to Miss Mary Lee Carrington, Oct. 31, 1882, who departed this life April 4, 1895. Born and reared in Hardeman County, having lived in the 15th district until the spring of 1899, when he moved to his late residence, near Bolivar. The community in which he lived has lost one, pure in word and in deed in every sense—one of nature's noblemen—a true gentleman. Efficient, aimable and unassuming, he honored the position he occupied, and attracted by his gentlemanly courtesy all with whom he came in contact, faithful in all his relations, loved truth and truthfulness and was a tender and affectionate father, a devoted brother and sympathetic friend.

May God fold the arms of his protection around the dear children left to battle with the present evil world, while father and mother are "asleep in Jesus," awaiting their coming. In the land of the loyal, in the golden summer of that sinless empyrean clime, where the funeral march is never sounded and the family circle is never broken, amid scenes of matchless splendor and joys unfading, they shall meet according to the word of the Lord—to part no more.

With deepest sympathy for the family.

Non-Resident Notice.

R. L. Smiley, of the firm of Smalley & Gatlin vs. W. L. Stafford. Proceeding by Attachment before T. D. Prewitt, Justice of the Peace of Hardeman County, Tenn.

It appearing to me that a writ of attachment heretofore issued in this case against the defendant, W. L. Stafford, who, under oath, is alleged to be a non-resident of the State of Tennessee, for the recovery of seventeen dollars ($17.00) alleged by the plaintiff to be justly due him from said W. L. Stafford by account, has been duly executed by seizure of property of the defendant by garnishment, and due return thereof made to me. It is ordered that publication of a notice be therefore made for four consecutive weeks in the BULLETIN, a newspaper published in Hardeman County, requiring the defendant, W. L. Stafford, to appear at my office in the first district of Hardeman County, at noon, on the 2nd day of May, 1901, before me, the Justice having cognizance of said cause, and defend the action thus commenced against him by Attachment, otherwise the case will be proceeded with ex parte as to him. This the 20th day of March, 1901.
